

I am a builder when I quickly acknowledge mistakes and humbly make amends

As we have practiced this month's Builders theme, we have found it gets easier and easier each time you truly admit to making a mistake and then look for the best way to make amends for that mistake. None of our students intend to do harm to one of their friends - sometimes they just get caught up in the moment. What do we do to try to make things better? We quickly acknowledge that we made a mistake then we follow through just as quickly with an idea to make the situation better, without using the phrase, "I'm sorry but . . ." After we have apologized and have made the appropriate amends, we must then leave it in the hands of the other person to quickly accept our apology. Keep practicing this theme in your family and see how much easier it gets each time you do it.
